Rethink Afghanistan

Friday, December 4th at 7:00pm

While the U.S.'s 2001 invasion of Afghanistan was seen as an imperative after the attacks of 9/11, the ongoing conflict has seen a massive drop in public support and a questioning of whether military force can solve the struggling nation's social, political, and economic problems. This documentary from filmmaker Robert Greenwald calls for a de-escalation of the war in Afghanistan in favor of non-military solutions and makes its case through rarely seen news footage and interviews with foreign-policy experts such as Andrew Bacevich, Stephen Kinzer, and Tariq Ali. (75 minutes)

Hosted by West Shore Social Action Committee and Chapter 39 of Veterans for Peace

Please plan on staying after the film for refreshments and conversation!
